Switzerland: Onet signs strategic industry partnership with Batmaid.com (Vanguard SA)

Onet Switzerland—a subsidiary of French engineering and services group Onet—has inked a strategic industry partnership with Vanguard SA. The move strengthens the position of Onet in Switzerland as it continues to diversify through the integration of innovative services.

Engineering and services group Onet continues to grow and strengthen its position in the Swiss market through its subsidiary Onet Switzerland. It recently signed a new partnership with Vanguard, the start-up behind Batmaid.com, which provides household services throughout the country. The deal will also allow Onet to expand the range of services it delivers to customers with innovation solutions incorporating new technologies.

Through this partnership, the Onet group will help Batmaid.com grow. The two companies are already working on a joint plan to expand the range of B2C services and extend these solutions to B2B customers. Vanguard and Onet also aim to bring Batmaid.com to the international market in the near future, building on its success in Switzerland, backed by Onet subsidiaries around the globe.

"Integrating digital services into the solutions we deliver to customers does not just strengthen our position in the Swiss market and promote international growth: it also fits in with our drive to build on innovation and grow Onet's traditional business lines," explains Denis Gasquet, Onet Chairman.
